HELPED BUILD COURT HOUSE

John Spottswood, who was Foreman at Time of Construction More than Half a Century ago, Visits Gettysburg.

John Spottswood, who was foreman at the time of the construction of the Adams County Court House in 1858-1859 was a Gettysburg visitor on Thursday and paid a visit to the building whose erection was completed under his supervision. Mr. Spottswood was at that time a resident of Frederick but is now living in Harrisburg. He was in the employ of John Turner, of Carlisle, who had the contract for the erection of the edifice.

Mr. Spottswood came here with his daughter to make a tour of the battlefield and when going out Baltimore St. approached the Court House. "Stop a minute," said the man to the guide, "That's the building where I got my first big experience at contracting."

He got out of the carriage and entered the big double doors where he was greeted by Jerome J. Martin, the present janitor.

"I see the same doors are here which I helped put on the hinges more than half a century ago," he remarked to Mr. Martin. "Now let's look round."

"Here are the same old semi-circular benches," he observed when they entered the Court Room. "And the old bell is in the cupola. I superintended putting it in place and was the first one to ring it. I want to tell you, too, that I rang it long and loud."

Mr. Spottswood was very much interested in the additions and improvements made to the building in recent years. He left after a brief inspection to continue his battlefield tour but expressed great satisfaction at having been able to again look upon the work of his earlier days.

Workmen were hurried to remedy the leak, which was not thoroughly effected for 48 hours. Large quantities of oil flowed over the immediate vicinity, causing some alarm among the people of that neighborhood.

On Wednesday quantities of the oil, which flowed over the field, were set on fire, which could be seen for miles around.

BOUGHT WHITE CLAY LAND

George B. and L. C. Otto, of South Middleton township, Cumberland county, have sold a tract of several acres, underlaid with a valuable deposit of white clay, to the Harrisburg Clay Company, of which E. W. Rink, of Harrisburg, is president, for $12,000. Five years ago they bought the tract for $1,300 since which time it has been held under lease by the clay company. The total revenues derived from the tract, which lies about two miles east of Mount Holly, amount to about $14,000 and the sale constitutes one of the most profitable real estate deals in the recent history of Cumberland county.

McClellan Whitcomb, a South Middleton farmer, has sold an adjoining clay tract to the company for $4,000. There are thirty acres in this tract and he, too, made a good profit on the sale.

The Harrisburg Clay Company will erect near the tracts a brick plant which will cost about $200,000 and will employ more than 100 men. The plant promises to be one of the big industries of this section.

HUMAN HEARTS

"Human Hearts" the "Idyll" of the Arkansas Hills will soon be produced at the Walter Theatre. Like Shore Acres and the Old Homestead, time only increases its hold upon the hearts of the people. The prattle of an innocent child, the tears of an old blind mother, the strong love of a simple country girl, the passion of an adventurer, the truth of a half wit, the love of an old negro and the tender memory of a dead mother of the past Governor of Arkansas, are all cleverly intermingled by the deft hand of the author of this absorbing tale of the Arkansas Hills. Each succeeding season of this thrilling play's annually increasing business, has induced the management to engage for this season's production one of the strongest companies ever organized in one cast. To the lovers of a good play, not one on the list of this season will appeal more strongly than "Human Hearts." At the Walter Theatre, Tuesday, August 30.

AT MASONIC CAMP

Among those attending the Masonic camp at Rock's are: David M. Wolff, of Baltimore; Dr. Gertler and Dr. Hickey, Littlestown; Frank Hartman, William Flemming, S. S. Neely, John Kimple, Dr. Walter H. O'Neal, James Caldwell, Robert Caldwell, William Kendlehart, J. Elmer Musselman, Daniel A. Skelly, Charles S. Duncan, Charles W. Myers, Harry Holtzworth, Allen Holtzworth, Gardfield Cremer, William D. Armor, C. William Beales.

GRAUSTARK

George Barr McCutcheon, the author of "Graustark," or "A Love Behind a Throne," to be presented at the Walter Theatre tonight is said to have received over eighty thousand dollars in one year as royalties from the sale of the book. Judging by the size of the audiences the play is drawing he will receive more than that this season from the play.

TWO MONTHS TO BE COMPLETED

Paradise Orphanage Near Abbotstown Nearing Completion. Handsome and Costly Institution. Inspection Made.

Bishop Shanahan, accompanied by Architect Reinhardt Dempwolf, of York, and contractor John A. Coulson, of Hanover, visited the Catholic orphanage near Abbotstown this week.

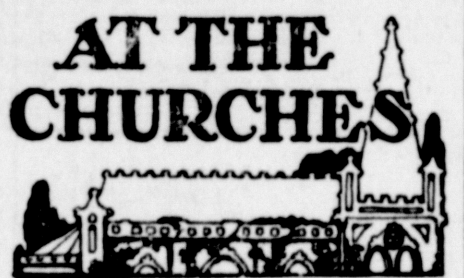

This structure, the foundation of which was constructed four years ago and for the past two years has been in the hands of Coulson brothers, contractors, will require several months to be completed.

The building is 168x96 feet, constructed of brick, with brown stone trimmings, surmounted with a copper dome. It stands on an eminence near the old Paradise Catholic church and makes an imposing appearance. Surrounding is the farm of over 300 acres, on which the boys will find "relaxation."

The building will be complete with dormitories, class rooms, dining rooms and fitted up with every modern convenience and improvement. A beautiful finished chapel is included in one of the wings of the structure.

The orphanage will be under the direction of "The Fathers," a religious order, founded in Germany, whose headquarters are in Baltimore.

Peter Dellone, one of Hanover's citizens, who has been quite sick, is one of the benefactors of the house, having given $10,000 toward the building fund.

CHILDREN'S ILLS IN SUMMER

The hardest period of a child's life is during the heated term. It is then that the little men and women become so subject to stomach and bowel troubles. With one it manifests itself in the form of obstinate constipation, with another the very reverse—diarrhea. One is as bad and as dangerous as the other. Constipation makes the child lose appetite and sleep, makes it languid and sickly-looking. Diarrhea weakens it and destroys appetite and energy. Eruptions, pimples, eczema, itch, worms, etc., follow in the train until many a mother feels that her child is indeed very ill. But these are all troubles that can be easily cured. The child needs a few doses of a remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the grand laxative and tonic. Parents can make no possible mistake by giving it Syrup Pepsin, as the chances are always in favor of the child needing a laxative. It is sold in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00, and any druggist can supply you. It cannot be mentioned too strongly that parents should look closely after the welfare of the children during the hot months. If you would like to try it before buying send your address for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

MANY DEAD IN TRAIN WRECK

Twelve or More Killed in Collision on Grand Trunk.

THREE OTHERS MAY DIE

Durant, Mich., Aug. 26.—Twelve or more persons were killed in a Grand Trunk wreck three miles east of this city, when eastbound passenger train No. 4 plowed through the Pullman sleeper "Nebraska" on the rear end of passenger train No. 14.

The fire box of the locomotive of train No. 4 fell out and set fire to the wrecked Pullman. Three charred bodies, one of them that of a child, and all burned beyond recognition, have been found, and portions of charred bodies believed to represent from six to twelve persons have been discovered. As only the bones of some bodies remain there will be great difficulty in ascertaining the exact number of those who were killed.

Eight persons were badly injured and three of them may die. The engine of No. 4 plowed its way through the sleeping car "Nebraska," the last car in train No. 14, catching eighteen persons asleep in the coach. The fire box of the colliding engine then dropped out and the death coach in a few minutes was blazing from end to end.

As the flames ate their way through the splintered timbers of the coach the cries of the injured ceased and the odor of burning flesh deterred the passengers of the undamaged cars and the farmers who had hurried from their homes to assist in the work of rescue.

The two trains were sections of the Montreal and Boston express. The engine of No. 14 was having trouble with its airbrakes, and two miles out of this city Mitchell, the engineer, stopped the train, and with his fireman, got down under the engine to make repairs.

G. R. Graham, of Detroit, the brakeman, was sent back to place a torpedo on the track and flag the expected second section. No. 4 came rushing on at a speed of forty miles an hour and ripped its way through the Pullman car.

The shock of the collision sent the whole standing train a little forward, and Mitchell and his fireman, under the stalled engine, were badly hurt.

Graham, the brakeman, declares he placed the torpedo a mile from the rear of No. 14, but that No. 4 paid no attention to it. The account of Spencer, the engineer of No. 4, is different.

"We were almost upon No. 14 when we struck the torpedo," he says. "I heard it all right, but there was not time to stop. I jammed on the brakes and called to Nelson, my fireman, to jump. I made a flying leap and landed in the ditch. Nelson didn't get away fast enough and was caught."

"I tell you the tail lights of No. 14 were not going and the torpedo was placed to close to the rear of No. 14 that I didn't have time to stop."

G. M. Graham, rear brakeman on No. 14, said that he carried a red lantern when he went back to place the torpedoes on the track and tried to wave No. 4 down, but failed to get a response until after the torpedo had gone off.

The crew of No. 14, except the engine crew, are said to have been hired during the recent strike and retained after the settlement.

A mass of charred bones, flesh and burned jewelry lies in a heap on a stretcher in Durant. The coroner believes the pile represents at least four bodies, but identification is impossible. The bits of clothing have been searched vainly in the hope of finding a bit of paper or a piece of jewelry that will help to establish the identity of the victims.

NOT CURED BY PRAYER

Former Dowie Lieutenant Dies of Appendicitis.

London, Aug. 26.—The American Zionist preacher, Mr. Cantel, who was Dowie's right hand man during the latter's activities in London, died from acute appendicitis.

Medical evidence at the coroner's inquest showed that his life could have been saved by an operation, but Mrs. Cantel refused to allow one to be performed, believing only in the divine healer.

She summoned a friend to pray by her husband's bedside and would allow no other treatment.

Found Hanging in Woods.

Williamsport, Pa., Aug. 26.—Five miles from the nearest road and in the heart of a deep forest, the body of Isaac Kissinger, of Roaring Branch, aged forty-five years, was found hanging to the limb of a tree. He had been acting queerly for a month. It was by chance that it was found by a man searching for cattle.

The cardinal is spending his time in London preparing the address which he is to deliver as president of the Eucharistic congress. He expressed the opinion that the congress will have a great effect on the development of religion in Canada.

MURDERS BROTHER ON THE STREET

Tried to Induce Dead Man's Wife to Elope.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 26.—Frank Pidanto, of Pittston, near here, murdered his brother Matteo, after the latter discovered that his wife had been bothered for some time by the attentions of Frank and his efforts to induce her to elope with him.

Mrs. Pidanto is a pretty and young Italian, and has been married only a short time. Frank Pidanto, it is said, was also envious of his brother's good fortune in getting the girl, and for some weeks past he has been making love to his pretty sister-in-law. His attentions became so annoying that Mrs. Pidanto told her husband that Frank was pestering her and asked her husband to make him stop.

Matteo went to see his brother and asked him to cease annoying his pretty sister-in-law. The two had words and quarreled, and as Frank was being pursued down the street he turned and shot Matteo through the head, killing him instantly. Frank escaped and is still at large. Troopers of the state constabulary are searching for him.

Rochester, Minn., Aug. 26.—Gifford Pinchot will assist in the war against Congressman J. A. Tawney in the First district and espouse the cause of Sydney Anderson, the progressive candidate for the Republican nomination.

Mr. Pinchot will deliver a number of addresses in the district during the primary campaign. It is probable that his principal speech will be given in Rochester early in September.

Mosquito Net Chokes Child.

Allentown, Pa., Aug. 26.—Mrs. Milton Ruch, of Schadt's School House, found a year-old baby apparently dead in its cradle, choked by mosquito netting, in which he had become entangled, while she was preparing supper. With admirable presence of mind, she employed artificial respiration and the child recovered consciousness just as a doctor arrived.

Leigh Hunt's Grave.

In the serene silence of Kensal Green cemetery, London, Leigh Hunt's body lies at rest. A visitor, reaching over the iron fence to part the fragrant shrubs that shadow the tombstone, reads these words:

"Write me as one who loves his fellow men."
It was his own cheerful philosophy of life that Leigh Hunt expressed through the lips of his Abou Ben Adhem, and the sentiment is very touching come upon in this way.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and if it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out of this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflammation of the mucous surface of the tube. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

HUGE CROWDS WELCOME T. R.

Gets Enthusiastic Receptions in Four States.

BANGS AWAY AT TRUSTS

Former President Tells People He Would Crush Dishonest Corporations and Men—Declares For the Square Deal.

Elkhart, Ind., Aug. 26.—Moving swiftly into the heart of the west, Mr. Roosevelt grew bold. The crowds that thronged the railroad stations all along the line in the states of New York, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, surprised even the colonel himself by their genuine enthusiasm and interest in what he had to say.

They listened to advice and they heard the colonel warm up into his old-time form and bang away against dishonest corporations and dishonest men. He threatened to break the best business in the land if it is not honest. He said he will make the corporations come to time although he promised to eschew politics until he should be given his set speeches upon leaving Clevelyenne.

Swats Governor Harmon.

Mr. Roosevelt could not resist the temptation to deliver a back-handed swat at Governor Harmon of Ohio. The colonel accused a great crowd in the Union Station at Cleveland by his reference to the car strikes at Columbus a few weeks ago, when the mob defied the police and cut loose from the law. He intimated that Governor Harmon didn't do his duty. He deplored the incident as an affront to decency and he declared that the public official who fails to quell the mob is as much of a criminal as the corrupt member of a corporation, which is the limit.

Mr. Roosevelt clenched his fist, pounded the air and clinched his jaws as he told folks in the various states what he will do whenever he has power. He said he will keep order and insist on justice from the rich man. A good many persons got the impression that T. R. spoke as though he were going to have power in the future, for he used that tense most all the time.

The colonel hasn't got far enough on his trip yet to allow an accurate estimation of his popularity in the west. Of course the crowds yelled and roared for "Teddy" and said nice things to the colonel's face, but they didn't go wild. As the train would draw from the various stations you could catch faint booms for "our next president," but nothing stronger of that nature was forthcoming. Still the colonel liked it. They like him. And he continued to hammer away at the corporations and the mobs.

Everywhere there were incidents typical of a Roosevelt tour. When the colonel spotted a baby in the crowd he would stop right in the middle of his speech to pass a kind word to a couple of fond parents. The effect on the crowd was just what he desired. This happened at Toledo.

From the early dawn when Mr. Roosevelt rubbed his eyes and found himself standing before a formal banquet in the Ellicott club, in Buffalo, until late at night, in Chicago, there was something doing every minute. Politicians swarmed to the Republic, his private car—politicians mostly of minor importance, who were seeking endorsements for themselves or their constituents.

Nearly Riot in Cleveland.

The first loud pounding of the day came at Cleveland. As the special thundered into the Union Station at Cleveland the colonel spied several thousand men and women jammed against an iron rail that separated them from the railroad yard. The platforms were full. Reserves pressed back the crowd, but they all wanted to see T. R., and see him they would. It looked like a small sized riot for a time. Mr. Roosevelt discovered at once that if he wanted to talk to the bulk of the audience, in the huge block, he would have to hop the fence and get close to the common people. He called for the police, and they literally injected him into the solid phalanx.

"This is great," he shouted as soon as he got settled. "You see it is the first chance I have had since I came out west to see the heart of the American people."

"The first thing that always strikes me, wherever I go through America, is that, fundamentally, we are all the same people; wherever I go I find the average American about the same fellow, east or west, north or south. The average American is a pretty good fellow, but his wife is a little better fellow."

And everybody cheered and laughed, especially the ladies, bless 'em. Mr. Roosevelt said that he had returned to the United States because the lions in Africa had failed to do their duty. His purpose, he said, is to make conditions in this country a little fairer and a little more equitable than they had been. "There are two things to remember," continued the colonel. "In the first place always insist upon absolute honesty and in the second place insist upon obedience of the law."

"Now I stand for the poor man, and until he does something that is wrong I will not stand for any man if he is wrong, rich or poor. If the rich man strives to use his wealth to destroy others, I will cinch him if I can."

The crowd screamed with delight as Mr. Roosevelt waved for silence. "Wait," he roared. "Wait and see if you'll cheer the other side. If the poor man is crooked or commits violence, I will stand behind the forces of order every time."

"These are the articles of my creed; a square deal for every man, justice for every man, rich or poor. If there is disorder all reforms must stop until order is restored."

PRAYER OF A HORSE POSTED IN STABLES

Gentle Hint Given to New York
Police Drivers.

New York, Aug. 26.—As a result of a visit to Pittsburgh recently Acting Police Commissioner Bugher gave out this notice to be displayed conspicuously in all stables where sleep the horses of the department of police:

"The Prayer of a Horse."

"To thee, my master, I offer my prayer.

"Feed me and care for me, and when the day's work is done provide me with shelter, a clean, dry bed and a stall wide enough for me to lie down in comfort. Talk to me. Your voice often means as much to me as the reins. Pet me sometimes, that I may serve you the more gladly and learn to love you. Do not jerk the reins and don't whip me when going up hill. Never strike, beat or kick me when I don't understand what you want, but give me a chance to understand you. Watch me. If I fail to do your bidding; see if something isn't wrong with my harness or feet."

"Examine my teeth when I don't eat. I may have an ulcerated tooth, and that, you know, is very painful. Do not tie my head in an unnatural position or take away my best defense against flies and mosquitoes by cutting off my tail."

"And finally, O my master, when my useful strength is gone do not turn me out to starve or freeze or sell me to some cruel owner to be slowly tortured and starved to death; but do thou, my master, take my life in the kindest way, and your god will reward you here and hereafter. You will not consider me irreverent if I ask this in the name of him who was born in a stable. Amen."

LEAPED FROM OCEAN PIER

Hundreds See Man Commit Suicide at Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, Aug. 26.—In sight of hundreds of pleasure seekers enjoying the cool breezes on the far end of the Steel Pier, Victor Foreman, of this city, committed suicide by leaping into the ocean fully clothed.

Foreman it is said was a sufferer from some mental ailment and was constantly under the care of a nurse. He went to the pier, and after listening to the band concert for some time excused himself from his guardian for a moment and walked toward the end of the structure.

Word was sent to the hospital tent, and Hall and Davis, life guards, rowed with all possible speed to the spot where Foreman had leaped overboard. They recovered the body, but the efforts to resuscitate the man were without avail.

Robbed by Masked Men.

Oswego, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Two masked men held up the telegraph operator in charge of the Lackawanna railway station at Nichols, near here, and at the point of a revolver compelled the operator to open the safe. The burglars escaped with less than $12 in money.

SAVE YOUR LIVES, LET FIRES BURN

Orders Sent to Rangers Hemmed in By Flames.

86 KNOWN TO HAVE DIED

Forest Fires in Northwest Are Still Spreading and Conditions Are Desperate in Many Sections.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 26.—The fact that eighty-six men of the forest service have perished has been definitely established by reports to the super visor at Wallace, Idaho.

Until Ranger Joseph B. Ha'm and eighty-five fire fighters at the head waters of the St. Jose river are heard from and fifty-five men under Ranger Kootkey, believed to be on Clare creek, are found, the actual number of dead fire fighters will not be known. It is estimated from telegraphic reports to the local government headquarters at Wallace, at from eighty-six to 102 dead.

Ranger Debbitt reports one dead under Ranger Rock and twenty-two of Debbitt's men dead on Setser creek.

The appalling loss of life among the forest employes has taken the heart out of the surviving foresters and an order has been issued not to risk life to save timber. The little fires are being extinguished, but the great fires, to fight which might result in more loss of life, will be allowed to burn themselves out or until the rains extinguish them.

Flames Hungry as Ever.

In the Coeur d'Alene mining country the fires have exhausted their fuel, as also they have done in the Pend D'Ouille valley. In the Clearwater country and in the thickest timber of the Coeur d'Alene national forest, however, the flames are hungry and active as ever.

No lumberman or forester will give an estimate of the timber losses. Even after the fires are out it will be difficult to reckon the cost. It is believed, however, that the present fires are the most expensive the United States has ever known. An expert railroad builder estimates the loss of the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound railroad at $2,500,000.

The Spokane Chamber of Commerce has begun the raising of a large relief fund.

There are 180 men surrounded in the mountains between Lolo Pass and St. Mary's, and Major Penn has sent three guides to pilot the mount.

Conditions in the Clearwater reserve are hopeless and Major Penn has received instructions from the forestry headquarters at Missoula to recall all the fire fighters from the interior of the stricken region and set them to work on the outskirts of the fire zone. The message said:

"Save the lives of the men and let the timber go."

Sixty-five American laborers arrived from St. Jose county and reported that forty-eight of their comrades were burned to death on Big creek last Saturday.

All of the men were recruited in Missoula.

JEALOUS MAN'S CRIME

Shot Wife and Himself Before Three Small Children.

Haverstraw, N. Y., Aug. 26.—In the presence of his three young children, Edward Jung shot and seriously wounded his wife and himself at their home in Congers City. The cause of the shooting is said to have been jealousy.

The couple had been married nearly ten years and have always lived in Rockland county. Neighbors heard pistol shots and the screams of the Jung children and some one phoned to the police. When the police got to the house they found Mrs. Jung lying on the floor with a bullet wound in her head. Jung was lying on the floor with a bullet wound in his head and a revolver clutched in his hand. Mrs. Jung may live. Jung will die.

Boy Kills Dog to Save Girl.

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 26.—Attracted by the screams of a little girl, who was being attacked by a large and vicious dog, a youth named Dan Burke rushed heroically to the rescue. The peril of the girl, a mere tot, was so great that Burke had no time to secure a weapon. He grabbed the dog by the throat with his bare hands, and despite its efforts to sink its fangs into him, choked it to death.

May Recover Stolen Jewelry.

Wilkes Barre, Pa., Aug. 25.—Mrs. Frank P. Rambo, of 1927 North Thirty-second street, Philadelphia, whose jewelry valued at $3500 was recently stolen from one of the Delaware Water Gap hotels, may recover most of it through the capture of William McDermott in Buffalo on the charge of being the thief. The police here, who have been looking for him, received word that he has been caught.

Bridegroom Instantly Killed.

South Bethlehem, Pa., Aug. 26.—John Wyantte, only recently married, met with instant death when he fell from a blast furnace being erected at the Bethlehem Steel works and fractured his skull.

THE PRIZE CUCUMBER

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

On the 15th day of June of a certain year, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when he was hoeing in his garden, Deacon Amos Gray straightened up to rest his back and then there decided that he would marry the Widow Spooner. He had been a widower and she a widow for three years. She lived near him in the village, and they had known each other before marriage.

Her garden needed hoeing. He set about it. It gave him a sort of sense of proprietorship. It was her garden now, but after a while it would be his. He had been at work for a quarter of an hour when the widow came to the open kitchen door and discovered him and called out:

"Why, deacon, this is truly good of you. I was just wondering who I could get to hoe my garden."

When he had been at work an hour the deacon uttered a few grunts and sighs and came to anchor on the step. The widow was looking fine for a woman of forty. She was robust and in good health. The services of a doctor wouldn't be needed for many a long day unless she fell down the cellar stairs. And she looked like a woman who would esteem it a privilege to build the kitchen fire every morning for four weeks after the groundhog had come out and seen his shadow. Yes, she was all right, and the deacon opened his mouth and said:

"Widder Spooner, me an' you have known each other a long time."

"Yes, deacon."

"Long before either one of us was married."

"Yes."

"And I guess we all sorter liked each other."

"Yes."

"And now Abe is dead and Martha is dead and we are lonesome, widder."

Why shouldn't we?"

She waited, but he stopped right there. There was Sister Nancy. Hadn't he better sound her and see how she was going to take it? Yes, that would be the wisest way. He therefore began to talk about the drought and other things, and after working for another hour he went home. He didn't speak to Nancy—not on that subject. She was trying to get supper with green wood, and she was hopping mad. He split up a dry board for her and blew up the fire, but he had lived long enough to know that when a woman gets real mad she must have at least a day to get over it. Next morning Nancy was so chipper that he decided to take his chances without speaking to her on the subject.

In the afternoon the deacon did some more hoeing, and there was another talk on the steps. Yes, the Widow Spooner well remembered his taking her to spelling school in the old days. She remembered their sliding hills together; she could recall the red apples he used to give her.

"Happy days they was, widder—happy days," he sighed.

"Yes, they were."

"But now you are a widder and I am a widder."

"Yes."

"And both of us goldurned lonesome."

"I am sometimes very, very lonesome."

"But we needn't be, widder—we needn't be. S'posin'—"

"Well?"

He couldn't go ahead. The thought had just struck him that she might have a wooden leg or a stiff knee and would make that an excuse for not doing the washing and ironing. He could dimly remember hearing that she had fallen from an apple tree and broken a bone somewhere. He would wait and make inquiries. It thus came about that he went home again with nothing decided. Now, the deacon was a great county fair man. He always had an exhibit of chickens, eggs or vegetables. He believed that if anything could save this world from the fate of Sodom it was the Methodist religion and a county fair held every October. At that very moment he was raising a prize cucumber to exhibit. It was only a foot long now, but it would be a rod in length before time for pulling.

Deacon Gray let a week go past without seeing the Widow Spooner. He got up one morning and stepped outdoors to inhale the fragrance of the air before sitting down to breakfast. About the first thing his eyes lighted on was a woman standing over his prize cucumber. It was the Widow Spooner. She had an ax on her shoulder, and her jaw was set.

"Why, widder, what does this mean?" asked the deacon as he sauntered out to her.

"You have the same as asked me to marry you," she replied as she spat on her hands and flourished the ax.

"But not right out."

"But near enough. Deacon, when is it to be?"

"I can't say. What are you doing with the ax?"

"In two weeks, deacon, or I chop your prize cucumber in two!"

"Lordy, woman!"

"Do I chop?"

"You wouldn't go to chop that cu—"

"Two weeks, deacon, or three or four? Speak quick!"

"Waal, say about three!"

And three it was, and, though Nancy raised a fuss and had to be carried out and dumped over the fence, the couple have lived happily together for years.

SEARCHLIGHTS.

A Special Pattern Must Be Used on the Suez Canal.

Every war vessel carries from one to twenty searchlights, and every vessel of any description whatever passing through the Suez canal has to carry one of a special pattern.

A searchlight consists essentially of an arc lamp of special form, a parabolic mirror and a case to hold the lot, the case being mounted so as to be capable of movement in two directions—viz, vertically and horizontally. The hood, as this case is called, is made of sheet steel about 3.32 inch thick. The turnable, trunnions, etc., are cast in gun metal. The arms which support the hood are of cast steel. The lamp box is formed as part of the hood. The mirror is carried on springs in the back cover, and at the front of the hood is a "front glass" mounted in a gun metal ring, and the dispersion lens when carried is hinged on in front of this. Trailing is carried out by means of a worm and worm wheel or by a rack and pinion. Slewing is effected by means of a pinion which gears into a crown wheel on the underside of the turnable, or else it is done directly by hand.

The Suez canal regulations require that the projector shall be capable of giving the light required under two different conditions—in the first case a broad, flat beam of light illuminating both banks and the canal uninterruptedly, this being used when no other ship is approaching; in the other case they require a beam having the same angle of divergence and consequently the same width as the first, but divided into two portions, with a dark interval between, thus giving light at both sides, but not directly in front, and so not interfering with the navigation of the approaching vessel.—J. M. Heslop in Cassier's Magazine.

A Fortune in Snuffboxes.

COUNT Nesselrode, the Russian statesman of the last century, was a famous collector of snuffboxes. He collected them as a diplomatist, receiving one or two for each treaty he signed, and when he had got $100,000 worth of them turned them into cash and became a capitalist. His capital he invested so judiciously that his descendants are multimillionaires. The moral of Count Nesselrode's experience is that a snuffbox is not to be sneezed at.

Pure love cannot merely do all, but is all—Righter.
